PARTNERSHIP PROPOSAL · VOLUME IV OF V · CEO MEMO

Recurring B2B revenue. Zero marginal cost. Investor-ready in 90 days.

A four-page memo for Leverage's leadership ahead of the bankers' meetings. Halcyon's referral economics are structurally recurring, high-margin, B2B — exactly the line a study-abroad ed-tech in IPO-prep needs to diversify its narrative. One conversation. Then a 90-day pilot. No exclusivity, no sunk cost.

₹375Cr
LEVERAGE FY26 REVENUE

₹2K–3K Cr
TARGETED IPO RANGE (INC42)

25% / 10%
HALCYON YR-1 / RECURRING CUT

$8.8K
YR-1 CHANNEL REV / MID PRACTICE

THE NARRATIVE GAP

Bankers will price Leverage on its recurring revenue mix.

Study-abroad commissions are transactional. Each placement is a one-shot cheque. Counselling revenue is bumpy — dictated by visa cycles, exchange rates, and policy shifts (the FY26 US H1B fee shock is the case in point). The premium multiple in the IPO comes from recurring B2B revenue lines that survive policy regimes. Fly Finance is one. Fly Homes is another. Halcyon is the third — and it requires no infrastructure investment from Leverage to launch.

What Halcyon adds to the cap table story

- Recurring B2B revenue — 10% of every Halcyon client's monthly fee for the lifetime of the contract. Zero marginal cost on Leverage's side.
- Diversification away from US student-visa exposure — Halcyon's revenue is denominated in US clinic fees, completely independent of US student-visa volume.
- Brand-aligned — healthcare and education are Leverage's two declared growth verticals. Halcyon sits at the intersection.
- Network compounding — every nurse Leverage Careers places becomes a node in the channel for Halcyon. Compounds with the existing roadmap.

The mechanics, stated plainly

- Halcyon manages full revenue cycle for US independent practices — 4–6% of collections.
- Average practice = $130K/mo collections × 5% = $6,500/mo Halcyon fee.
- Channel partner (Leverage) receives 25% of month-1 fee + 10% recurring.
- Per signed practice: $8,775 to Leverage in Year 1, $7,800/yr in perpetuity.
- Net retention > 95% — consistent with industry billing-vendor benchmarks.

> Bottom line: per practice that signs & stays, Leverage earns $8,775 Year 1 (~₹8.25L) and $7,800 every year after (~₹7.33L) — at ~95% gross margin, with no marginal cost on Leverage's side. It compounds with every close.

THE HONEST MATH

Per practice that signs & stays.

No upfront, no retainer, no fixed numbers — channel commission only flows after a referred US practice signs a Halcyon MSA and pays its first invoice. From there: 25% of first-month fee (paid once), 10% of every subsequent monthly fee (recurring, no cap). Per-practice math at INR/USD ₹94 (current spot rate):

PRACTICE SIZE	HALCYON FEE / MO	YR-1 CHANNEL REV / PRACTICE	YR-2 RECURRING / PRACTICE	3-YR CUMULATIVE / PRACTICE
Small primary care $75K/mo collections	$3,750	$5,063 (~₹4.76L)	$4,500 (~₹4.23L)	$14,063 (~₹13.2L)
Mid-range $130K/mo collections	$6,500	$8,775 (~₹8.25L)	$7,800 (~₹7.33L)	$24,375 (~₹22.9L)
Multi-specialty $250K/mo collections	$12,500	$16,875 (~₹15.86L)	$15,000 (~₹14.10L)	$46,875 (~₹44.1L)

Why this fits the IPO narrative: what Leverage actually books is (practices closed) × (per-practice rev above) — recurring, ~95% gross margin, no headcount, no marketing on Leverage's side. Bankers price recurring B2B revenue at materially higher multiples than transactional study-abroad commissions. We're not projecting close counts — we're showing the unit economics that anchor the disclosure.

Assumptions: 5% Halcyon billing rate · 25% Month-1 + 10% recurring channel commission · per-practice numbers exclude the small risk of churn before Year 2 · INR/USD ₹94 (May 2026 spot). No exclusivity required. Halcyon eats 100% of integration and sales-execution cost; Leverage's incremental cost is opt-in to host the channel.

WHAT WE'RE ASKING

A 20-minute call between two CEOs.

I propose a brief direct conversation with Leverage's leadership ahead of the next bankers' touchpoint. The agenda is one slide: does this story add to Leverage's cap-table narrative, and is the 90-day pilot worth running?

STEP · 01

20-minute principal-to-principal call

Just the four of us — no decks, no demo. Validate strategic fit. Decide on pilot scope. End the call with a yes/no.

STEP · 02

90-day pilot inside an existing channel

Soft-launch inside one Leverage dashboard segment (alumni, employer-bundle, or diaspora — your pick). Halcyon eats integration cost. KPIs reviewed at day 60.

STEP · 03

Scale or sunset, no commitment

If pilot returns ≥ 12 closed practices in 90 days, expand to the full channel set. If it doesn't, sunset cleanly — no IP, no exclusivity, no cost-recovery owed.

REPLY WITH A 20-MIN SLOT ANY WEEKDAY BEFORE 27 MAY 2026 · NAITIK@HALCYONMEDBILLING.COM

COUNTERPARTS ON THE CALL

Founders only. No middle layer.

CEO & CTO · HALCYON

Naitik Joshi · SENDER

Founded and architected Halcyon. Owns product, technology, and the senior client relationship. I'll be on the call with Akshay personally. Replies to naitik@halcyonmedbilling.com route directly to me.

CFO · HALCYON

Rushan Khan

Owns Halcyon's commercial & partnership economics. Will join the call to walk Leverage's CFO through commission mechanics and the Referral Partner Agreement.

WHAT WE SHIP IF THE ANSWER IS YES

- Referral Partner Agreement — lawyer-reviewed, 1–2 pages, DocuSign within 48 hours
- Technical integration spec — UTM-tagged dashboard channel, ACH/wire payout rails
- Quarterly attestation reports for IPO disclosure-grade auditing
- Co-branded communication templates pre-approved by Halcyon legal
- Dedicated CSM at Halcyon for the Leverage channel only

Read this before replying: Halcyon assumes Leverage already has multiple partnership conversations in flight in IPO prep. We are not asking for exclusivity, an equity stake, or a content license. We are asking for one introductory call — which will not require Akshay's time more than 20 minutes — and a pilot that costs Leverage zero in upfront capital.

NJ

Naitik Joshi
CO-FOUNDER, CEO & CTO · HALCYON MEDICAL BILLING LLP
naitik@halcyonmedbilling.com